HOLIDAY PLANNING

Kitt Garrett, a native New Yorker and the president of the travel company DISCOVER NEW YORK WITH KITT GARRETT (1-212-370-1319; discovernewyorkwithkittgarrett.com), has been organizing personal tours for more than fifteen years. "This season is a bustling time, but it's also supposed to be peaceful," she says. "You have to plan ahead." Garrett's firm works with clients, customizing their stay "from the moment they set foot off the plane."

Besides getting front-row tickets to performances, reservations at the coveted tables and private tours of the holiday sights, she can arrange such behind-the-scenes treats as singing lessons with a cast member from a Broadway show or skating lessons with a pro at Rockefeller Center. Garrett also makes sure that your traditions travel with you. "I always suggest that families send their favorite Christmas ornaments ahead to the hotel," she says. "It's great to enter your suite and find a tree decorated with something from home."

For the upcoming holidays, Garrett has created an exclusive New York itinerary for the Town & Country Travel Club by Virtuoso. Customized tours can also be arranged for the 2005 season and beyond.
